Lack of Quorum Prevents Official Students' Meeting

Group Present Hears Gill's I.S.S. Report

Due to the fact that a quorum was not present yesterday afternoon, an unofficial meeting of students was held in place of the scheduled Student Society meeting.

The unofficial meeting was held with the consent of the 60 students present. A quorum consists of 300.

Student Society President Colin McCallum in welcoming the assembled group, thanked several campus organizations for their past efforts.

In particular he congratulated the Freshman Reception Committee for "a very successful and well carried out programme" which was mainly due to the hard work put in by a large number of members during the summer recess months and early in October.

He also thanked the Scarlet Key, the Summer Committee of the Students Council, and The Daily for their work during the summer months.

Bob Gill, former President of the Students Society then presented a report on the International Students Service. In it he reported on last summer's seminar held in Holland and told of future plans of the organization.

The purpose of I.S.S. is to foster a spirit of international understanding, he said. He explained that in the past the I.S.S. had taken part in relief for students in devastated areas of the world but that at the present some people felt that relief should be given to students in Canada as well. This will be discussed at a conference to be held in the University of Montreal next month.

Although no quorum was present yesterday, the Constitutional requirements have been met since the Students Society Constitution merely says that a general meeting should be "called" about a month after the beginning of each term. This, of course, has been done.

President Colin McCallum, told the Daily after the meeting that he had no intention of calling a meeting in the near future but that if it became obvious that a meeting was wanted then he would be very glad to call one.

Sale of Old McGill Will Begin Tomorrow

"Old McGill," the students annual will go on sale at all the residences on Friday, Oct. 28.

Ralph Swain, editor-in-chief of the annual, said that this move had been made in order to provide the students with ample opportunity to obtain their 1950 copy.

He also said that the Annual staff has been working and trying their best to make this year's publication the best in the history of the university and that they are trying

California Restauranters Object to College Prices

Berkeley, California — (Special) — Since the University of California cafeteria opened over a year ago, its management and the local restaurant owners have been at each other.

Basis of the on-again, off-again battle has been the cafeteria price schedule, which runs lower than those of the private operators.

"We pay taxes to support the University, and we don't think it's fair for the University to put us out of business overnight," was the way one restaurant put it.

Cafeteria Manager R. H. Neddersen feels differently. "Those boys are still doing pretty well for themselves. And it's our job to give the students the best food we can at the lowest possible prices," Neddersen said recently.

The row hit its peak last Spring, when the Berkeley Restaurant Owners association registered objections with the State Board of Equalization over the cafeteria's tax exemption.

Jules Voerge, president of the association and owner of the Jules Creamery chain, charged that the cafeteria was catering to the general public. Therefore, he said, it should be required to collect the three per cent state sales tax re-

Women's Union Plans To Be Told at Meeting

Plans for the coming year and Women's Union activities and responsibilities will be presented at the semi-annual meeting of the Women's Union on Monday, Oct. 31, at 5 p.m. in the R.V.C.

This will be an open meeting which every woman student is entitled to attend. President Kayo Little will be in the chair.

An outline of the Women's Union activities and responsibilities will be presented and a financial report given. Presidents of the various women's clubs and societies will be introduced and they will define briefly the purposes of their organizations.

Plans for the year which have been drawn up by the Women's Union executive will also be discussed. These will include social events, the sponsoring of the charities drive, and a lecture series.

Tea will be served at 4 p.m. prior to the meeting.

RVC Opening Features Tour Of New Wing

There was no privacy in R.V.C. last night.

Tours of the building introduced the alumnae and their husbands to the new East Wing. Other parts of the building included in the tour were the cafeteria and kitchen, the bathrooms and bedrooms, the laundries, the library and reading room, the infirmary with the new annex and the isolation wards, the staff suites, and various lounges and club rooms.

The chancellor, Chief Justice O. S. Tyndale, the Board of Governors, the Senate and professors in the faculty of Arts and Science were entertained yesterday afternoon at a tea presided over by Dr. Muriel V. Roscoe, Warden of R.V.C., which was then followed by a tour.

A buzzer system to each room in the building will be completed in a month or so, but until then freshmen have to serve on phone duty.

DAWSON ELECTION RESULTS

Winners of the Dawson Arts & Science elections yesterday were received last night just as The Daily went to press.

Cy Rosen was elected president by acclamation while the position of vice-president was won by E. J. Clancy with 56 votes, his opponent A. Zahalsky receiving 34.

Candidates elected to the Dawson Key and the number of votes gained were as follows: R. R. Smith 208, Cliff Kirby 168, G. MacCuthen 152, Bill Parsons 151, Ron Lennie 142, Guy Caron 136, Bob Lyon-Hall 117, John Wilder 116.

quired of privately owned restaurants.

(Under state law, the cafeteria was entitled to a tax exemption if it served only students, faculty members and University and ASUC employees.)

Neddersen and the University administration countered that the cafeteria was intended to serve only those people who had legitimate University connections. However, they added, it was impossible to search every patron for a registration card or prevent loaning of "ID" cards.

A spot check of cafeteria patrons last Spring showed that about 1 per cent of the customers were not University personnel. Neddersen said most of these were students' wives.

After various attempts to find a foolproof method of barring illegal diners, the management bowed to the restaurant owners and began charging state sales tax.

At the point, the controversy began to die down. The restaurant owners still aren't happy, but they feel they have exhausted possibilities of legal action.

Jules Voerge told the Daily Californian, "We're still gripped that the prices up there are so much cheaper than ours."

Junior Prom Planned for December 2

This year's Junior Prom will be held on December 2, it was announced by the committee in charge of the dance.

The second meeting of the committee was held last Tuesday under the direction of chairman George Piper. Colin McCallum, Students' Society President, was present to offer his advice.

The dance will take place in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium and will last from 10.00 p.m. until 3.00 a.m.

The committee decided to hire two bands for the event. Those in charge of the arrangements have said that these bands are well-known to the students and their names will be released as soon as negotiations have been completed.

Refreshments are included along with the two bands in the price of the ticket, which is $5.00. Doug Coupland reported that he has secured the services of a dependable caterer and expects the refreshments to be a feature of the dance.

As yet no definite plans for decorations have been formulated. It was felt, however, that the committee in charge of decorating the gym should be enlarged. George Piper asked that anyone wishing to aid the committee in this particular field contact him.

Joan O'Connell reported that she expects a good representation from the faculties and Graduates' Society as patrons to the dance.

The number of tickets will be limited, but the committee will issue as many tickets as possible to all faculties.

Camera Club Holds Meet on Contact Prints

The process of contacting was the subject of an address given last night by the president at the first meeting of the Camera Club, held in the cafeteria of the McGill Union.

Before the lecture, the president introduced the club's executive elected from the remaining five members of the club last year. They are Bob Bishop, president, Joan Shepherd, secretary-treasurer and Peter Hall, publicity agent. Prof. Sprout who has been with the club since its beginning was also present.

Bishop explained how the image on the negative was exactly the opposite as the object that was taken. The negative is placed on sensitive printing paper in a printing frame, then it is exposed to the light, the length of the exposure depending on the density of the negative. The printing paper is then placed in the developing solution, from there it goes to the stop solution and finally it is placed into the fixer solution. The paper is then washed and the result is a positive print.

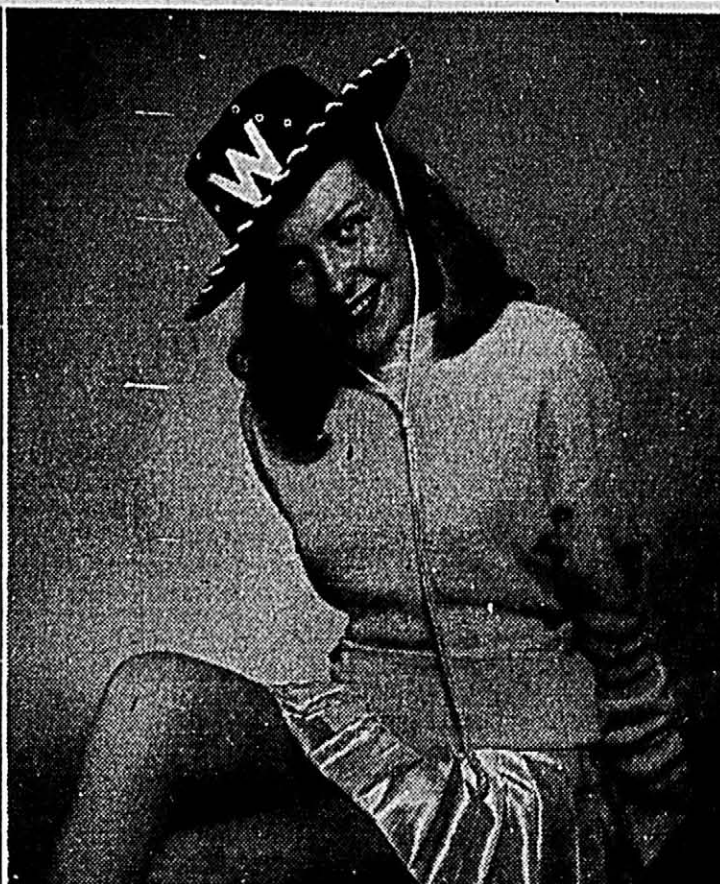

In contact printing the print is the same size as the negative. Equipment used are a contact printer or a printing frame, 3 trays, fixing, stop and developing solutions. Bishop said that at the present time photographic equipment and materials are very costly.

He then called on everyone to stand, and introduce themselves. There were members from many different countries. It is possible for members to rent cameras from the club for a period of one week. These cameras all use 127 film.

The meeting divided into four groups and everyone had an opportunity to make a contact print. The new members were then conducted on a tour through the club's darkroom in the basement of the Union. A member is allowed to use the darkroom for periods of one hour. The club provides all the equipment except the paper, which the members themselves must provide.

The rest of the meeting was taken up with the registering of new members and the serving of refreshments. The membership fee is one dollar, which allows the member a discount at 2 Montreal photo shops.

The next meeting is scheduled for November 2.

UBC Graduates Remain; Essay on Jobs Proposed

Victoria, (Special) — Provincial Department of Education officials are happy about the fact that last year 92 per cent of the University of British Columbia graduates remained in Canada. Of these, 82 per cent remained in British Columbia.

Hon. W. T. Straith, Provincial Minister of Education, made this statement yesterday at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel.

He was speaking in connection with a club program, staged in cooperation with the Vancouver Board of Trade's B.C. Products Bureau, which honored a group of Lower Vancouver Island students who won awards in an essay contest based on British Columbia job studies.

Such a contest, the education minister said, was extremely valuable in giving students "advance knowledge" of jobs and positions within business and industry of the province which they will most likely enter after leaving classrooms.

Special tribute was paid the Vancouver organization in this regard. There were approximately 50,000 students in the junior and senior high schools in the province, he added, and of this total one out of every four participated in the recent job study essay contest. He noted the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade made available $3,000 annually for bursaries to winners of the annual essay contest.

When it came to encouragement toward vocational training, British Columbia was "way out in front" as compared with other provinces of Canada, Mr. Straith said.

He noted the Department of Education was offering considerable assistance to students of the province. A sum of $40,000 was set aside annually, he reported, toward assisting children of financially handicapped war veterans in education advancement.

In addition, the province contributed each year $30,000, to which the Federal Government added a similar amount, toward general "outright" assistance to British Columbia students. A total of $40,000 is also provided annually by the Government of British Columbia for long-term loans to students of the Province.

CITES DIFFERENCES

Special attention was being given, the minister added, toward the cultural advancement of British Columbia students.

"Learning how to live, and how to make a living are two different things," he remarked.

Each year $100,000 is provided by the Government of British Columbia for students "at the university level."

Mr. Straith said every effort was being made by his department to supply the particular type of classes most beneficial to various centres of the Province. He cited a school near Nanaimo where special classes are available to students wishing to learn fundamentals of the logging business.

SHIPBUILDING CLASS

At North Vancouver there is a class for young men interested in the shipbuilding and repair industry, while another school at Dawson Creek enables studies of agriculture and agricultural equipment.

The Department of Education was attempting to establish classes in agriculture at appropriate centres of the Province which would encourage students to stay on the farm. As it is now, he said, graduates of such classes usually wind up away from their farms and in some white collar job.

MATHEMATICAL SOCIETY

The Mathematical Society will feature at its meeting tomorrow a lecture by L. Melzak, entitled "The Variational Properties of the Circle, Cycloid and Catenary."

BURRIE-BURRIE CHAMPION of The McGill Daily will be determined in crucial playoffs at the staff party this Saturday evening. The Sports staff has been practising for some weeks in the gymnasium and Marcel Baltzan says his team will field some strong wrists. This photo shows the semi-finals of a playoff in the news department. Anyone who has been on The Daily long enough to be partially mad can make a good showing in this battle of the butts. Staffers can now obtain party tickets from department heads.

A. & S. Students Vote Today For Class Representatives

U.B.C. Bans All Sororities From Sports

Vancouver. — (Special) — Sororities at the University of British Columbia have been barred from entering teams in women's sports on the campus.

This decision was made recently by the student-directed Women's Athletic Directorate reportedly under pressure from a member of the faculty.

Basis of the ban, according to reports, is that if the well-organized sororities compete, they would soon take over control of women's sports.

Panhellenic, the governing body of all sororities, when approached by the directorate, had favored participation in women's sports.

Most sorority women felt the plan would be a good way of preventing members from spending hours smoking and drinking coffee in the cafeteria, favorite meeting place of most campus sorority and fraternity members.

Carol MacKinnon, WAD president, introduced the plan to admit sororities in the hope that club participation in women's sports would arouse more interest in an almost forgotten field of women's activity on the campus.

Her plan has been scrapped now and women's sports will continue under the old system of interfaculty competition, with the addition of student clubs chartered under the Alma Mater Society.

Alexander Will Open New Queen's Union

Kinston, Ont., — (CUP) — His Excellency Viscount Alexander of Tunis, Governor-General of Canada, will officially open the Students' Memorial Union at Queen's University here on Sunday, October 30. He will unveil a plaque in the main hallway and declare the Union open at a brief ceremony which will be transmitted to the Great Hall by public address system.

Following the unveiling, a brief Memorial Service will be held in the Memorial Room, and after the Ceremonies the party will proceed to the Great Hall for luncheon. The Governor-General will address the group, about half of which will be students, after the luncheon. He will be introduced by Chancellor Dunning and thanked by Principal Wallace. During the afternoon, guests will be presented to Viscount Alexander and he and his party will make a tour of the Union Building.

The modern new Union Building will be dedicated to the students and alumni of Queen's who gave their lives in the two Great Wars.

ENGINEERS' INFORMAL

The Engineers' Fall Informal which was scheduled to take place today will actually take place on November 25.

Labour Law Under Fire At Liberal Club Meeting

Weakness and bad faith in the administration of Quebec Labor Law came under discussion at the Liberal Club meeting held yesterday in the Union.

Mr. Lou Lemieux led a discussion on the ever present labor problems in Quebec and pointed out that a labor union has to go through three distinct stages before it can call a strike — negotiation Decertification, it was explained, resulted in taking away the rights of the union to bargain with anybody, thereby making any subsequent strike illegal. An illegal strike, it was stated, leads to the sort of violence which characterized the recent strike at Asbestos.

"Since it is the intention of this club to encourage constructive thought, each week at its discussion meetings the members are asked to consider a specific resolution aimed at solving such problems as exist in Canada in regard to such important phases of national life as labor, housing, trade and national defence," said president Des Thomas.

During the meeting a member of the club explains the current situation with its good and bad points. The others then discuss it and strive to arrive at some solution which will later be presented as a resolution at Provincial and National Liberal Conventions with the hope that it will be adopted as official party policy.

Continuing its policy of bringing current problems up for discussion and solution, the club will present a talk by Roger Oumet, K.C., at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the Union Ballroom on "Mr. Duplessis and Quebec Labor — A Liberal View."

At the close of the meeting, members were reminded of next week's discussion, to be led by Prof. John Bland, director of the School of Architecture, who will talk on "Practical Solutions to Canada's Housing Problem."

Today Is Last Chance For Trip to Queen's

There will be an extra bus returning to Montreal on Sunday in addition to those returning Saturday night from the Queen's-McGill game this week-end to accommodate students wishing to make a longer stop-over, the Red and White Committee announced last night.

"In order to facilitate the chartering of buses the Committee urges all students interested in making the trip to buy their tickets today," John MacKay, chairman of the Red and White Committee said.

6 Unsold stadium tickets are being returned to Kingston tonight to give Queen's fans an opportunity to buy them, the First Year Club, which is handling ticket sales for the excursion, also announced last night.

On sale at the Union ticket wicket, the excursion tickets cost $7.00 return while the stadium tickets cost $1.50 each.

Varsity Brief Recommends Conservation

Toronto—(Special) — Conservation should be the sole function of an Ontario government department, with a senior member of the cabinet at its head, a University of Toronto brief presented to the nine-man legislative committee on conservation declared.

The brief was signed by A. F. Coventry, professor of vertebrate embryology; G. B. Langford, professor of mining geology, and D.F. Putman, associate professor of geography.

At present, conservation comes under the Department of Planning and Development, which also has responsibility for town planning, trade and industry, and immigration. The brief did not recommend a new government department be set up. Rather, it suggested Planning and Development be relieved of its other functions.

Conservation soon will be a major activity of the government and now is the time to recognize this and organize for it, the brief said. It also said a conservation department should have as its minister a senior member of the cabinet, and a deputy minister of senior rank. These are absolutely essential in order that co-ordination at all levels of the administration may be done effectively, it added.

A third recommendation was: "Other departments of the government should organize specialized conservation agencies, which will plan and execute projects in their specific fields, as a part of a co-ordinated conservation program."

The activity of the provincial government on conservation, since the Department of Planning and Development was set up in 1944, has been commendable, the brief said. The interest of the people has been aroused and the machinery for carrying out conservation programs has been established.

"Unless, however," it added, "the whole effort will be abortive. A final push is required at this time to capitalize on the excellent progress that has been made."

It suggested the planning and development department would be the best fitted for the task. It has the nucleus of a staff trained and experienced in overall conservation work. It has, through establishment of conservation authorities, created an important link between the provincial government and those interested in conservation.

It has won the confidence of the

He stressed the fact that none of the decisions of these boards are binding to the company, but that if the union did not accept them, it was liable to be decertified by the Minister of Labor in Quebec.

INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING

Bob Gill, last year's president of the Students Society, last night told the general meeting of the Students Society of the valuable contribution to international understanding being made by International Students Service.

This organization, which includes students, graduates and faculty members of universities across Canada, has done extensive work in alleviating the plight of university students in countries hardest hit by war. As the need for relief in these countries has lessened, I.S.S. has concentrated more upon what Gill describes as "international understanding in action."

With three other McGill students, the former chairman of the Students Executive Council attended the second seminar held in Europe under the auspices of the Canadian committee of I.S.S. The seminar, which was instructed by outstanding Canadian and European professors, brought 120 students from all the countries of Western Europe to a round table conference with Canadian students. The result was a better appreciation for at least this many students of the respective outlooks and problems of people in North America and Europe.

The student bodies of the various Canadian universities represented at the I. S. S. seminar held last year in Germany and the seminar held this year in Holland, have profited to the extent that their representatives have written and spoken extensively on the conditions and the outlook of people in Europe as they observed them.

Perhaps the best indication of the prestige which I. S. S. has gained for itself is the fact that the provincial governments, the Canadian Council for Reconstruction through UNESCO and the British Control Commission of Germany have contributed considerable sums of money to the work of I.S.S.

The Students Executive Council has expressed considerable interest in the work of I. S. S. and we think the council and the student body in giving strong support to I. S. S. would be backing an organization which has proved conclusively that it can make a very important contribution to international understanding.

As Others See It

WHAT PRICE EDUCATION?

We see that federal subsidies to Canadian universities are back in the news. Dr. H. J. Cody, former chancellor and president of the University of Toronto, has suggested federal subsidizing of universities by establishing more scholarships for students. We believe this to be only a partial solution of current school problems.

In a brief submitted to the Royal Commission on The Arts, Letters, and Sciences, last summer, the universities pointed out quite clearly that they could not hope to function properly on present student fees. For example, it takes $1600 a year to train medical students. The fee is around $500. Obviously the discrepancy must be met from some other source. But the other sources, revenues from endowments and provincial grants, have not been sufficient to more than cover minimum operating costs. And the three-per-cent-of-revenue dominion research grant is scarcely adequate to maintain the many research projects that are being carried out.

So, if we understand Dr. Cody's scheme correctly, in giving more scholarships to young Canadians, we are indirectly aggravating the already acute financial situations at universities.

It is apparent, especially in view of the fact that the province can give no further aid, that there is a need of a straight federal grant to the universities themselves. Of course, such a suggestion always brings sinister prophecies of federal domination of schools, curricula, students, etc. Such has not been the case in the provincial secondary schools, and would not seem dangerous in this case.

But the people of Canada would possibly object to gilding what many already consider an ivory tower, of providing more facilities for freshmen pranks and long-hair antics.

Therefore it becomes the duty of the universities, and the students, to more fully acquaint such people with the facts. Canadian universities, in many respects, rank with the finest educational institutions in any land. One of Canada's greatest products is the well-balanced graduate of her universities. This does not imply it is necessary to go to university to be a well-rounded citizen — it merely restates the fact that, in this world of technical specialization, the university graduate is best equipped to serve.

Service possibly that is the key-note on which the true value of Canadian universities, and the subsequently imperative need of adequately financing them, may be brought home. Canada needs every well-trained man she can get. Our country is crying for development — by Canadians. Not all graduates are aware of just how much public money has gone into their education — however many students, not of that class, strongly feel that their awareness of the situation can best be shown by working for the public welfare.

Surely, if the students who receive Dr. Cody's scholarships could also be persuaded to undertake to work for a number of years for that same public welfare, the average Canadian could see a tangible good resulting from the federal subsidization of universities, which The Varsity advocates.

Letters to the Editor

IN DEFENCE OF DAWSON YELL

Editor, The Daily:

It seems that within recent weeks a sentimental heirloom has suddenly become the topic of much abuse among our civilized Montreal cousins. We refer, of course, to the Dawson yell.

We few, having received much of our university education in rustic surroundings, humbly apologize for our behaviour — and merely offer the suggestion that much mounting frustration is left off in our cheer.

When a good solid citizen spends from one to three years in an atmosphere of filth, frustration and famine, he is liable to become slightly sensitive to jibes from fellow students presumably in other faculties who have been fortunate enough to miss the mass exodus of young ambitious science and engineering students from Montreal to the banks of the Richelieu.

Perhaps Mr. Eddy does not know the history of our yell. It originated with a Dawson team which won the Q.R.F.U. in 1945. We are justly proud of the Big Red Machine and we hope that former Dawsonites now on this team will appreciate our vocal efforts and realize that we are not trying to "offend."

Chairman's Reply

Editor, The Daily:

Mr. Bosnich in his letter to the editor, Tuesday, Oct. 25, raises a point which I cannot leave unchallenged. The obvious inference that he was not permitted to speak or ask question at the Tim Buck Meeting is just not true. I was chairman of that meeting and the facts are these:

1) During the question period Mr. Bosnich raised his hand and was recognized by the Chair.

2) Instead of asking a question, he requested permission to speak for five minutes.

3) The Chair, after stating its opinion that the meeting was not a political debate, but had been called to give students an opportunity to hear Mr. Buck's views on "Civil Liberties in Canada"; and that there were other student activities where Mr. Bosnich might express his opinions, nevertheless asked the audience to decide whether they wished to hear this student. It was agreed that he speak.

4) When he chose to cross-examine Mr. Buck rather than speak his piece, the Chair stopped him and insisted he implement his own request to speak to the audience.

5) Mr. Bosnich then spoke for more than five minutes. In this space of time he managed to try the patience of his audience by once again asking his questions — this time of himself! Having answered them to his own satisfaction, he sat down.

Now, to top it all off, his letter once again treats us to those very same questions with but one difference: this time there were no answers.

Caverhill At McGill

Because of his work on the Freshman Reception Committee this year, including the organization of a skit for the Freshman Dance, Austin Caverhill is well known to McGill first year students. A second year Artisan himself, he is a member of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, and the newly elected president of the Players' Club.

Austin, who is of Scottish parentage, first came to Canada in 1940, and took his high school education at Lower Canada College. He joined the RCAF in 1944, and then returned to England where he taught school for one term.

He was in the British army for three years, during which time he spent one year in India. He decided to come back to McGill and entered McGill in 1948. Now he intends to make Canada his permanent home, since most of his friends are Canadians.

His first theatrical venture, aside from school activities in England, was "Love in a Village," where he had a small singing part in the comic role of Hodge. By this time he had perfected the Cockney accent required, and when he saw the Players' Club announcement that a Cockney accent was needed, he applied. Thus he was initiated into this organization by playing Briggs, a pathetic character, in the Arena Wing production of Thunder Rock.

Owing to his being president of the Players' Club this year, Austin's campus activities will necessarily centre around the theatre. He feels that much work is needed to reorganize the club because of the great gap left by the graduation of Eugene Jousse.

Gene will be remembered by McGill students for his successful direction of Thunder Rock last year. He set up the skeleton of Arena Wing here at McGill, and Thunder Rock was the first production of this type to be attempted in Montreal.

Austin feels that this is a project worth developing further, and this year it will constitute the main interest of the Players' Club. By following the system set up by Gene, he hopes to train young people who eventually will be able to replace him.

Austin is taking an honors English and History course at McGill. He is interested in creative writing, and hopes to find time for this in between his other activities. When he receives his B.A. degree, he intends to make teaching his career, and with this idea in mind, he will spend his next few summers working with boys' camps.

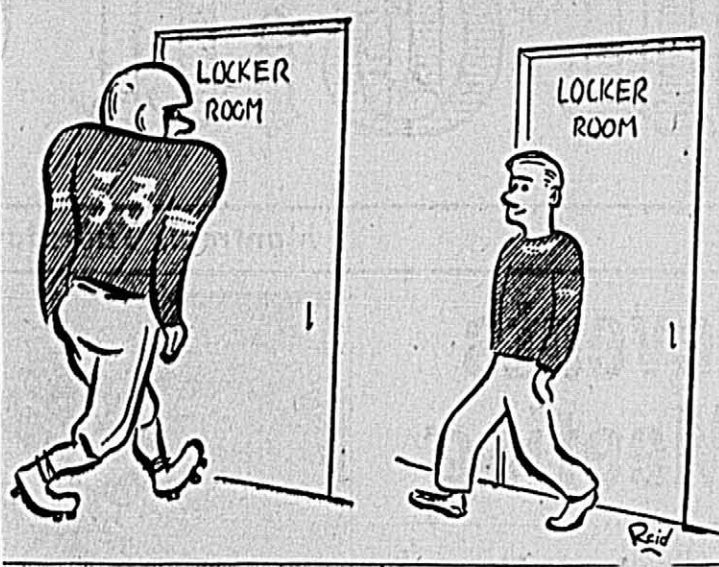

Musically Speaking

by Sabine

The Montreal music season had an auspicious opening last week with three first rate concerts by excellent performers. The first was an all-Chopin memorial recital by Anatole Kitain, who presented a thoroughly interesting evening of music. The smaller works were the most successfully performed; there were really thrilling discourses of several of the lesser known but more difficult études and nocturnes.

Mr. Kitain, who is a graduate of the same conservatory as Vladimir Horowitz, has a more than ample technique and his tone in slow lyrical passages was always carefully modulated and resonant. His approach to the larger works on the programme — the Third Sonata, the Fantasy, the Fourth Ballade, and the Barcarolle — was for our taste rather too straight-forward. We should have liked to have heard Mr. Kitain in a recital of music by Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, et al; somehow we believe that he would have been more temperamentally suited to these composers.

Engineering Girls

by Elizabeth Sumner

Of the five girls who entered their first year of Engineering at Dawson College in 1948, only one remains. She is Maude Toye.

"Yes, I'm the only one who is still taking Engineering," states Maude. "Two of my classmates switched to Science, one became ill and left, and the fourth got married." Maude herself, is now in her final year of Chemical Engineering.

There is only one other girl who is a full-time student in the Engineering Faculty at McGill at the present time. She is Martha McCabe, who is in her third year of Mechanical Engineering.

Both girls were born in Montreal, although Martha moved with her family to Sherbrooke in 1942. Maude is a graduate of Montreal High School, and Martha, of Kings Hall in Compton.

In physical appearance, the girls are opposites, although each is very attractive in her own way. Martha is tall, blonde and hazel-eyed, whereas Maude is petite with raven black hair.

When Maude decided to take Engineering, Dawson College was not yet in existence. Her pre-engineering year, therefore, was taken at McGill. The following year, 1946, Dawson College was opened, and along with four other girls, Maude went out to brave the rigors of McGill's most spirited faculty.

"My one year at Dawson certainly was an experience," says Maude. "We were the first women there, and had to make our own rules concerning leaves. You see, R. V. C. 'leaves' didn't apply to us. We therefore drew up a set of rules, presented them to Professor Gillson, and they were approved."

"We had a lot of fun at Dawson, but I think that if any girl today had the choice of going to Dawson or McGill, I would advise her to go to McGill."

Martha, on the other hand, took her pre-engineering year at Bishop's University at Lennoxville, then to Dawson College in the fall of 1947. This year she is at McGill, living at R. V. C. Her only comment on life at Dawson was an echo of Maude's: "It certainly was an experience."

MAUDE TOYE, who is in her final year of Chemical Engineering at McGill, is one of the two girls in the Engineering faculty. The other is Martha McCabe, now in her third year of Mechanical Engineering. Dawson? "Wow!" they say.

Neither girl had any great ambition which she wished to fulfill, or any great hero she wished to emulate when she decided to take Engineering. Both thought just that it would be "interesting." Maude says "Engineering has really helped me to understand the chaps I know. They are all Engineers, and now I know what they are talking about. It used to be boring to hear them talk of 'grams' or 'co-ordinate covalence'. Now it means something to me."

"I've no idea what I'll do when I graduate next spring," she continued. "When I started in 1946, there were plenty of jobs available. Now jobs are so scarce — even for the men. Sometimes I wish that I had taken Science. Then there wouldn't be all this fuss!"

Martha's only comment on this was, "I agree, only I wish I'd taken Commerce!"

Pioute Pete Hobbles In

It appears that the sports office of the Daily is not the only place where things do not arrive on time. The Normandie Roof has its problems too. We were waiting there to interview Pioute Pete who was due for a show at nine forty-five when Buddy Clarke handed us this telegram, "Sorry, missed the four o'clock plane from New York stop will catch the seven."

The seven o'clock plane was due shortly. We waited. It came. No Pioute.

The next plane was due in at twelve. We waited. It came. No Pioute. We stopped being good persistent Daily types. We went home.

Around twelve the next day we tried again. Mr. Pete was awakened. We finally got to see this champion square dance caller.

We asked him if it was true that he learned to square dance because he had arthritis.

"That's right. I used to walk like this," Mr. Pioute got up and began to hobble around the room rubbing his sore back. That settled that.

We might add that the bouncing gentleman's attire was quite in keeping with the spirit of the thing. Beneath a quiet plaid sports jacket we detected a brighter plaid shirt with an even brighter tie as the finishing touch.

He explained his routines very enthusiastically. These are kept so that everyone can pick them up quickly and easily. We were unable to watch this master caller at work, but we will be able to see him Friday when he appears at the ACS.

McGill Is Second as Macdonald Wins Track Honors

Redmen Uncrowned As Peter Flanagan Paces Aggies' Win

By HY RISSMAN

On a muddy track and under threatening skies the Intermediate Inter Collegiate Track meet was held at Molson Stadium yesterday afternoon before 300 spectators. Six colleges participated including McGill, Dawson, Macdonald, Carleton, Bishop's, Sir George Williams.

Macdonald College led by Chunky Pete Flanagan, succeeded in overthrowing McGill, Intermediate champions for the past three years. Flanagan garnered a total of 18 points with three firsts and a second. Runner up Georgian Harry Salisbury and Coughlin of Dawson were runners up with ten points each. Hank Sliwka, McGill's intra-mural champ was only able to get 5 1/2 points with two seconds and a tie for third.

In the first event of the day John MacFarlane, Bishop's sole winner notched the 120 yard high hurdles in 18.1 seconds.

The 885 yd. run proved a thriller as McGill's Gord Gilmour hit the tape a foot ahead of Collier of Dawson and Fraser of Mac, who were only inches apart.

It was Pete Flanagan for the next three events as he capped the 100, 220 and discus throw. His 220 yd. dash was one of the best races of the day as Pete raced around the rain soaked track in 23.8 seconds, well ahead of his nearest opponent.

In the 440 event, Bob Coughlin of Dawson provided the spectators thrills galore.

Graham Jardine, McGill intra-mural 3 mile champion improved his last weeks mark by running this event in 16 min. 58.2 sec.

Georgian Harry Salisbury capped the broad jump with an impressive 20 ft. 2 1/2 in. jump, which is an excellent jump considering the condition the jumping pit was in.

McGill footballer, Clyde Whitman, lost a heartbreaker in the shot put when Bob Kleine of Macdonald put the shot 33 ft. 9 1/4 in.

The best individual feat of the afternoon was performed by Sir George's Jack, Boston Marathon competitor, ran one of the best mile ever witnessed at Molson Stadium. He finished thirty yards ahead of Carleton's Dave Roberts' in a strong final sprint.

Mac took the day's honours with 66 1/2 points, followed by McGill with 29. Sir George Williams, Bishop's and Carleton finished in that order.

Red Rugger Team Faces Aggie Squad on Saturday

This Saturday the McGill rugger fifteen will play its second game in the MacTier Cup series, with Macdonald College — the team the Redmen must beat to stay in contention. In the mean time U.N.B. has stated that they will not compete for the cup this year, and with that team defaulted, it is unlikely that St. Francis Xavier College will be able to come up here to play off against the winner of the Montreal-Toronto matches. This leaves the three Montreal teams and the two in Toronto as contenders for the cup.

An ambitious rugger program has been planned for the next three weeks. This Saturday, besides the MacTier Cup game at Macdonald, McGill with the aid of Dawson will field a second team to play Westmount at Westmount Park. The McGill Club has decided to organize a second team in order to give all players who turned out for practices a chance at match play.

Next week-end the Red fifteen goes to Toronto to play off against U. of T. for the intercollegiate championship, while the Westmount Club is planning to go down at the same time for an exhibition game against the Toronto Wanderers.

A series of rugger games taking on the proportions of a "rugger festival" has been planned for Friday and Saturday, the 11th and 12th of November. If all goes according to schedule these two days should see matches between Harvard, Toronto, Westmount, and McGill. Which team comes up from Toronto will depend on who wins the play-off there for the MacTier cup on the 29th of this month. The final game in the MacTier cup series will be on Saturday, November 12.

TEAM ANNOUNCED
The McGill first fifteen which is to play Macdonald on Saturday has been announced as follows: Fullback, MacPherson. Wing three-quarters, Scott, R., Hoare.

Centre three-quarters, MacMillan, Alexander. Fly half, Ramsay. Scrum half, Floyer. Forwards, Orr, Greery, Bishop, Price, Scott, K., Morgan, K., Kent (Pack leader), Fairbairn.

All players must be at the steps in front of Douglas Hall by 1:30 sharp Saturday, in order to get transportation to Macdonald College.

The following have been selected to turn out for the McGill second fifteen playing against Westmount on Saturday: Anglin, Brencley, Covo, Cowley, Fraser, Fox, Hutchison, Latimer, Piper, Prentice, Putnam, Stamp, Tilden, White, Wynn, Young.

Will any of those listed who cannot turn out please contact John Glen, Team Captain, at WE-6984 during this evening. It is most important that all players on the second fifteen turn out for this afternoon's practice at 5 o'clock. The team will meet before the game on Saturday in the changing room in the Canada Bread Co. building on Melville Avenue across the street from Westmount Park.

Jack Gelineau Makes Grade In Pro Ranks

The headlines read: Gelineau Beats Canadians 2-1. This was just one of examples of the praise heaped upon Jack Gelineau, McGill's former net custodian, at present doing a hang up job for the Boston Bruins of the N.H.L.

Jack, as you all know, starred for several years with Dave Campbell's Senior squad. His outstanding goaling in collegiate hockey raised the eyebrows of most scouts and coaches across Canada and the U.S. It was only a matter of time before a professional team would sign him. Although Gelineau wanted to gain his degree before signing a pro contract the Boston Bruins' offer was too tempting and he left the McGill squad during the latter part of last season to guard the nets for the Bruins.

Gelineau had a man size job—filling Frank Brimsek's shoes. Brimsek starred with the Bruins for nearly a decade and Boston fans would be satisfied with only a top flight goalie.

JACK MAKES GOOD

This past weekend Gelineau showed them and the whole hockey world that he was not just a raw rookie. He did a veteran's job in stopping the powerful Montreal squad Saturday in Montreal and also Sunday in Boston. With more than fifty shots fired at him off the sticks of Richard, Lach, and other stars, they were able to dent the twine for only a single goal. Boston won Saturday's game 2-1 (Continued on Page 4.)

Orlick Elected President Amateur Athletic Union

Professor Em Orlick of Dawson College was accorded new honours on Monday night when he was elected president of the Quebec A.A.U. Em is a well known figure at Dawson where he has been sports director since September 1945.

Sometimes referred to as Mr. Dawson, Em has displayed a wealth of organizational ability, ingenuity, and an all encompassing knowledge of sports. During his stay at the St. Johns branch. When Em took over the sports department at McGill's brand new subsidiary in 1945, he was given very little equipment and a small budget to work with. However he rallied the students around and began a co-operative sports programme where the students took over the managing, coaching, and sundry other duties connected with sports in order to cut down on budget expenditures. A hockey rink, a baseball field, and other needs of the athletically minded Dawsonites were built and kept up by the students under Em's able direction. A wide variety of athletic diversion was soon available to every Dawson student who wanted to get into the game.

These proven executive abilities and a thorough storehouse of sports knowledge will serve Em well in his new post where he will be responsible for directing the activities of all amateur sports bodies in the province that come under A.A.U. jurisdiction. This is a big task, but big tasks are old stuff to Em who does on getting his teeth into the tough jobs. That Em will succeed in his new job is a foregone conclusion with all members of the great Dawson fraternity, for they have seen what Em can do, and all wish Em the best in his new venture.

Dave Campbell Impressed by Hockey Squad

"This year's forward division will be as effective as last year's if not better" Coach Dave Campbell of the hockey Redmen declared yesterday at the Montreal Forum as he put his charges through a heavy practice.

And if spirit and fight mean anything, then the whole McGill team will certainly be a factor in this year's intercollegiate race. True, he has uncertain quantities on defence such as Zemel and Reynolds but if they play in the games as they do in practices lining up with the veterans Hennessy and Sanderson, then there is certainly nothing to worry about. However, the boys still have a long way to go as far as condition goes and will have to keep on plugging just as hard.

Leading the forward divisions to the fray is "Old Reliable" himself, Phil Henry. Phil looks to be in fair shape, as does his left-winger Murphy who played on last year's edition of the Braves. O'Neill and Fensome impress with their fine skating and good puck carrying.

The next practice will take place on Friday at the usual time of 12:30 p.m. However, the Coach plans on conducting a blackboard session on Thursday in the Currie Gym.

Indians Prep For Weekend Aggie Contest

The McGill Intermediates came out of their week-end game at Kingston against the Queen's Comets without serious injury and will be at full strength for their next game which is against the Macdonald Aggies at Molson Stadium on Saturday afternoon.

Dave "Baldy" Tomlinson who was injured in the week-end tilt is back in harness and the star lineman and former Stamper will be raring to go against the Aggies. As Tomlinson was the only Indian casualty, the team will be at full strength.

Heartening news has been received about the return of George O'Brien to the line-up. George, a real comer at quarter, starred for D'Arcy McGee in Montreal last year and was expected to help the Indians considerably in this position. Recently he was taken seriously ill however and was hospitalized. It is hoped that George will return by the end of the week and possibly get into the Macdonald game and thus take some of the weight off the shoulders of the Jeff Crain who played the entire contest at Queen's.

In the quarterback department Gene Robillard's knee has responded well to treatment and the Ottawa boy will be out there this week-end. Gene was dressed for the game in Kingston but did not play. On Saturday however he will be in the thick of the action and will bear watching for his bullet passing and deceptive handoffs have been a feature of the practice sessions. Indeed he was tabbed as a great prospect for the Senior Redmen but the early season knee injury put him out of action.

Standings of the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference show the Indians in first place two points ahead of second place Bishop's and Ottawa U. who are tied for second. The Indians have six points from three wins in their three starts to date and are top contenders for league honors.

Grads, Phys Ed, Law Win Football, Softball

TOUCH FOOTBALL
Playing in a field of mud, Phys. Ed. 3 and 4 overwhelmed Commerce 1 and 2 by a 32-5 count. The Commerce men suffered a severe blow when Furse's leg was badly injured during the last play of the game. Johnny Meagher started the ball rolling when he received a kick on his own thirty and ran around left end, laterally to Vic Allan for the TD. The victors then piled up touchdowns at will, Meagher throwing to Kemp for two, the latter converting both. Meagher then threw to Thacker for another. The Commerce crew then scored their only major when Furse made a long run around end. However, seconds later, Pennock threw to Thacker to make the final score read 32-5.

A hastily assembled Grads team defeated the Architects 6-0 yesterday. The game featured much passing. The teams went scoreless until there were only four minutes to go in the game. Then Poabst kicked a single point for the Grads which looked like the clincher. But the Architects came back fast and were in position to tie up the game in the last play. They tried to kick the necessary point, but Stacievitz for the Grads caught the ball on his own goal line to end the game in spectacular fashion.

SOFTBALL
Phys. Ed. bowed 9-8 to Law 1 and 2 yesterday afternoon in a closely contested indoor softball game played at the gym yesterday. Because of the interference of lectures, the scheduled four inning game was reduced to only two frames.

Phys. Ed. opened the scoring in the top half of the first when Boudon doubled to score Bell and Bertrand. Law countered in their half with five markers when Boucher homered scoring Dohan. Byson, Reynolds, Macaboy and Brown singled driving in three more runs. Six more runs in the second in (Continued on Page 4.)

Congratulations to third-year Arts student June Walker, who won the Governor General's Trophy for riding yesterday . . . this is the third year that fall, dark June has won this trophy, and so now it takes its place on her trophy rack . . . it is June's privilege to keep it now, June rides for Mr. H. S. O'Connell in all the Montreal and any surrounding shows . . . and she places very well in most of these events. . .

IN THE SWIM . . .
The swimming club enters the news world this week, as we find the intramural swimming meets taking place this coming week . . . the first instalment takes place next Wednesday evening out at the N.D.G. Community pool, and the following Monday the 7th of November, the rest of the people, who wish to compete, will be entered . . . The second instalment will be held down at the Y.W.C.A. on Dorchester. There are two sections this year in the swim — Senior and Junior.

The Senior section includes all gals who have ever competed as a member of an intercollegiate or an inter-city team. That section will not bar anyone who wishes to compete against the experts, because it is open to anyone. . . The Junior is for all the others who are interested and who would like to make some points for their section . . . as well as those who wanted to compete against the seniors.

Let's see everyone turn out at these meets . . . and we should like to add that spectators are never barred. . . The R.V.C. Notice Board will carry any further information.

Swimming times for those who wish to practice . . . and the intercollegiate meet is just about a month away. Now not much more time left, are from 5 to 6 at the Y.W.C.A. . . On Monday there is speed swimming and diving and Thursday is the time for ornamental swimming. . . Monday is the big swim night out at the N.D.G. Community pool, when McGill have the pool at 8 and all swimmers are eligible.
